1. Overview

We will be releasing a trial version of the RI78V4 V2 real-time OS for the RL78 family. It will be available on our website.

Performance and functionality of the trial version are same as the product version. Therefore users will be able to use the free version in evaluation before purchasing the product version.

The RI78V4 V2 for the RL78 family is designed to be compact yet has outstanding real-time features and abundant system calls to realize embedded systems with high-quality real-time and multi-tasking environments.

In addition, compatibility with the CS+ integrated development environment, and a configurator which automatically generates definition files, will help you to develop applications more easily and quickly.

Refer to the following URL for details of the features of this product and the MCUs it supports.

This information will be available from June 5.
